How did the Fund perform during the reporting period?

The Eagle Energy Infrastructure Fund Class A Shares ("Fund") returned +35.10% during the fiscal year ended April 30, 2026 (the "Investment Period"). The Fund invests primarily in securities that provide exposure to the underlying price and income of energy infrastructure assets in an attempt to generate attractive, long-term risk adjusted returns. The Fund's investments attempt to capture the income and market characteristics of energy infrastructure securities while not participating in the tax complexities that can reduce the attractiveness of investing in this asset class, including K-1s, state and local tax filings.

The Investment Period provided a generally favorable environment for energy infrastructure assets and performance was driven primarily by two catalysts, the buildout of AI infrastructure and the conflict in the Middle East.

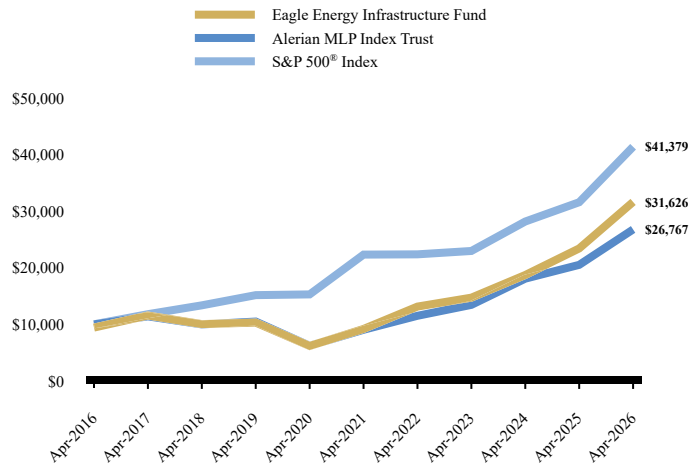

The buildout of AI infrastructure continued to accelerate, leading to significant increases in capital expenditure. This growth boosted both current energy demand and future demand projections for natural gas and electricity, particularly from data centers. The continued expansion of data center capacity is expected to increase energy demand, benefiting midstream assets.

The current conflict in the Middle East created a supply shock that drove oil prices higher and disrupted global energy markets. Such dislocations often require energy flows to be rerouted as markets work toward a new equilibrium. Although midstream companies are generally less directly sensitive to commodity prices than other segments of the energy sector, they sit at the center of, and stand to benefit from, this rebalancing process.

The majority of the Fund's holdings contributed positively to performance during the Investment Period. In particular, the Fund's investments within the Pipeline – Natural Gas category contributed +8.44% to the Fund's performance during the Investment Period. In addition, investments in Pipeline – Diversified and Pipeline - Natural Gas Liquids Infrastructure category contributed +7.40% and +6.74%, respectively, to Fund performance.
